Researchers of the institute found almost 0% inflation when they compared the August 15th basket of goods to the September 15th basket of goods. Positive fluctuation is when prices of certain commodities were offset by negative fluctuation of other commodities, maybe the focus was on back-to-school commodities.

The institute's first publication was on September 15th 2022. September 15th 2022 is one year since the first publication. The researchers compared the September 15th 2022 basket of goods to the September 15th 2023 basket of goods and found year over year, there is a 2.8% inflation.

The institute's next publication will be on October 15th 2023.
